Fortnightly Hears Concerning Mexico Guest Night Plans

Mr. N. P. Ames Carter of Amherst addressed the members of the Fortnightly at their regular meeting held last Friday afternoon at Alexander Hall. The president presided and there was a goodly attendance. Mr. Carter illustrated his talk with pictures, both still and movie.

He said, "that Mexico was never a really near neighbor of this country due to the arid tableland which divides us. Two-thirds of the people are Indians called peons and number about 10 millions." The views shown pictured them as living in extreme poverty. Mr. Carter passed quickly from these sordid scenes to Mexico City, the most beautiful city on the North American continent. The old cathedrals were especially beautiful with tiled domes, artistic carving overlaid with pure gold and of old Spanish architecture. One of the views showed Maximilian's mansion high on an eminence. Other views included the fine arts building, the beautiful parks, in some which there are open air libraries. One view showed a park in which the story of Don Quixote was illustrated in tiles around the seats—where readers may sit and read Cervantes at their leisure. Views of the pyramids of Mexico proved very interesting as did the Aztec Calendar Stone, whose elaborate carvings give proof that this ancient race had an enlightened civilization. Nevertheless barbarism mixed with their intelligence, for besides the Calendar stone may be seen the Sacrificial stone horrible souvenir of priestly power and human cruelty.

Mr. Carter presented Mexico's strong contrasts; the poor dwellings of the Indians against the beautiful buildings of the city; the impressive mountains, two of them extinct volcanoes, bearing those unpronounceable names of our children, in contrast with the arid plains. Ancient methods of living with modern; a most interesting country.

The meeting this Friday evening will be held at the home of Mrs. L. P. Goodspeed on Main Street. The program is in charge of Mrs. Goodspeed and should prove most interesting.

Guest night of the club will be held Friday evening, Nov. 20 at 7:30 o'clock in Alexander hall. Each member may bring one guest. Mrs. Charles E. Leach will be the hostess. Miss Joan Kirby will entertain with readings.

Old Church Building

Local attendants of the First Church of Christ Scientist at Greenfield are taking much interest in the completion of their new church edifice on Main Street in Greenfield. The church building is a quaint old type of Colonial architecture and was originally erected at Coldbrook in the Swift River Valley which territory is now to be overflowed for reservoir purposes. It was purchased on its previous location, taken down and rebuilt on its present site. It preserves another old New England structure and will be used for the services of the Christian Science church.

Local Roll Call Of American Red Cross To Get Under Way

Many members of the local committee of the roll call of the American Red Cross attended the county session at Deerfield Academy last Monday evening.

At a fine time they had as they partook of a fine banquet served with the gracious hospitality of Prof. and Mrs. Frank L. Boyden as their contribution toward the success of the campaign in the county.

Mr. A. G. Moody, chairman of the Northfield committee has called a meeting of all local workers for Saturday evening at the Hotel Northfield and arrangements will probably be made to start the campaign for membership here early Monday to continue until Thanksgiving Day. Our citizens are urged to be ready to respond favorably when approached by members of the committee.

At the Deerfield conference Mr. Boyden introduced as toastmaster, Mr. Homer Sherman and addresses were made by Principal Burke of the Turners Falls High School, Rev. J. B. Whiteman, Miss Anna Koch, Hon. John W. Haigis and Mr. Albert E. Roberts of the Northfield Schools. Miss Koch stated that a total of $34,713 was spent in Franklin county for flood relief work and that 509 cases were approved for rehabilitation. Mr. Roberts cited the work of the Red Cross as a "unity of effort" and it was done in a spirit of goodwill and fellowship one with another. He urged the workers to go forward with full optimism in the undertaking to its greatest success.

The speakers expressed appreciation to all who had labored in the humanitarian work during the period of the flood disaster until the permanent staff of the Red Cross arrived on the field. The Franklin county chapter did the work as best it knew how with no regrets and the people of Franklin county nobly and unselfishly responded to all the calls for assistance.

Big Flower Show To Be Arranged

Miss Blanche Corser, president of the Northfield Garden club, and Mrs. Martin Vorce, a member of the executive committee, attended a meeting of the Garden clubs of Western Mass. in Springfield last Monday. Plans were made for a flower show of the combined clubs to be held at the Eastern States Exposition next September.

There are 32 active clubs in this district and it was also voted to invite the clubs of Northern Connecticut to join in the movement. Mrs. Churchill of Amherst, was one of the judges at the flower show here last August, was elected chairman, and Mrs. G. W. Gordon, regional vice-president of the Federated clubs, was elected secretary.

A supper will be served at the Union hall at Northfield Farms this Friday evening and the usual large crowd is expected to attend. It is an annual affair and those attending enjoy a social time.

Armistice Day Supper And Dance Was Huge Success

The Haven H. Spencer Post of the American Legion and the Auxiliary cooperated in the holding of a most successful affair on Armistice Day evening in the town hall.

Accommodations were provided for three hundred at the supper and the meal was served in a most appetizing manner by those in charge and by those who assisted. Mrs. Sidney Given acted as general chairman and had charge of the dining room with a very competent staff. Dr. R. G. Holton was in charge of the kitchen and with his staff dispensed most excellent service. In the evening a large company enjoyed the dance in the hall to the music of the Reta Rhyme orchestra. The decorations were in charge of a committee consisting of Mrs. Cortland Finch and Mrs. Harold Bigelow.

The general committee consisted of Commander Given, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bigelow and Miss Emma Bigelow. The Post and Auxiliary are especially grateful to all who aided in the success of this annual affair.

Plans are going forward for the celebration of the D. L. Moody Centenary next year by the General Committee in charge of which Mr. A. E. Roberts is the secretary. Beside a series of public meetings at which prominent speakers will be heard, it is proposed to put on a pageant participated in by students of Mount Hermon and the Seminary depicting the founding of the two institutions.

THE AVALANCHE

Returns From Detroit; Promises Sensation With Ford Showing

Back from Detroit last Sunday night, Mr. Ross L. Spencer, was filled with enthusiasm for the new Ford car to be seen at his garage the end of the week. He had attended the gathering of 8,000 Ford dealers who were called together in conference at the Ford Motor Co. plant. They were given full particulars of the new car, of the improvements in its construction and of its probable price.

Two cars will be turned out of identical appearance but of different engine power at a slight variance in cost. However, one must see the car and have it explained in order to understand full details.

At the conference attended by Mr. Spencer, the dealers presented an old wind mill from Cape Cod to Mr. Henry Ford erected in Greenfield village which they visited. The huge banquet was attended by nearly 12,000 people and the splendid musical program rendered was heard by many over the radio. Mr. Spencer enjoyed the gathering very much and returns prepared to serve this territory in the sale of the new Ford car.

Following the ceremony a reception and breakfast was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Callaghan, parents of the bride. Relatives and close friends of the bride and groom who were present were: Mrs. Minnie H. Abbey, mother of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Students Voted; Preferences Shown

While our citizens were engrossed in the recent election few were aware that the students of the Northfield Schools put on a campaign of their own for the determining by their own logic and reasoning their choice for the same candidates running for office as President of the Nation. Over at Hermon political assemblies were held and a presentation of the facts and principles for each party was made in turn and then the students voted. The result was Republican 274, Democratic 73, Socialist 45, Union 3 and Communist 8. Over at the Seminary the young ladies also expressed their choice in a vote; Republican 371, Democratic 73, Socialist 38. Well that's fine. Youth can not begin too early to find itself in the field of good citizenship.

HEY MOTORISTS! LISTEN!

SPARKS!

By THE LITTLE ENGINEER

IN the life of every automobile engine there comes a time when it does not seem to be giving the power and smooth performance the maker built into it. And that is the moment to get right after the trouble. It means the engine is sick somewhere. The hope that it will somehow cure itself is a vain one which leads to major repairs and expenses.

How long since you've given a thought to your spark plugs? Those faithful and marvelous little gadgets do a superb job for you, firing millions of sparks into your gasoline mixture. Upon every one of them depends the performance of your car. It is a practical and economical idea to buy a new set of plugs every 5,000 or 8,000 miles or even more frequently. You can tell the difference in your engine's operation on the first start and with in the first few feet.

Illnesses of plugs include the burning of the points, too great or too small a gap between the points, fouling with carbon and cracked porcelain. Two of these complaints you can partially remedy yourself. The others are fatal to your engine's well-being and economy and new plugs are the only satisfactory answer.

A sluggish engine should be attended to at once. Delay will cost you money.

Cow In Gill Church

As the result of a Halloween prank, three boys Francis Hastings, Harold Ayer and Harold Baker are in District Court with the case continued until the 28th charged with defacing a public building. It is alleged that the defendants led a cow into the Gill Congregational church and left her there all night without providing a chambermaid. Serious damage was done inside the church before the sexton discovered the matter early Sunday morning. The boys have retained an attorney to represent them in the trial as a plea of not guilty was given.

Mileage Hints

By J. F. Winchester
Supervisor of Motor Vehicle Equipment, Colonial Esso Marketers

Tires, springs, and shock absorbers are three of the means by which the maker of your car tries to give you comfortable riding. To assure yourself of this comfort you must pay some attention to them.

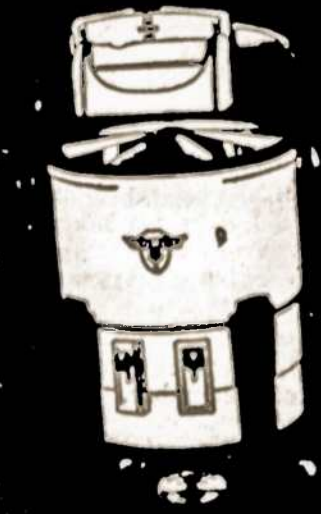

Tires should be inflated only to the proper pressure. Higher pressure makes the bumps harder. Watch this on long drives on hot days, for the heat, expanding the air, will increase the pressure. But don't try to get a spicier ride by running your tires at lower than the recommended pressure, for you will shorten their life.

Springs need lubrication to enable them to absorb shock most efficiently, and this will usually be taken care of when you have a chassis lubrication job done at a reputable service station. Broken spring leaves should be replaced promptly to eliminate the added strain on the unbroken leaves and prevent further breakage.

Shock absorbers should be kept in good condition. Connections should be checked to make sure the absorbers are given a chance to function properly. Hydraulic absorbers in which the rebound is checked by a body of oil should be checked every 5,000 miles to make certain the oil supply is adequate. Keep in mind the importance of your tires, springs and shock absorbers and check them occasionally as suggested to insure your enjoyment of motoring.

Gets An Owl

A remarkably fine specimen of an owl was secured by Mr. S. E. Walker last Saturday. He didn't trap it nor did he shoot it, but while raking up an accumulation of leaves near his house he discovered the owl among the leaves and evidence that it had died but a short time before. What happened to cause the death to the night bird is unknown but it was a fine specimen and unusually well marked in its feathering.

Republicans Planning Party "Revitalization"

Chairman of the National Republican committee, John D. M. Hamilton has taken steps to revitalize the party in the country by effecting a substantial reorganization extending through every state, county and municipality. He is taking a forward look and emerging from the defeat in the election feels that 1938 will present the opportunity in the congressional elections. Every Republican committee and organization must gird itself and plan for the future if it is to again obtain control and power in the interests of the people whom it serves. The party faces a deficit of a million dollars. Even though defeated, the Republicans numerically have increased their numbers.

EDITORIAL

Congressman Treadway must feel considerably relieved after his victory at the polls last week. For fourteen terms he has served his constituency faithfully and well and his return to office in the midst of an overwhelming Democratic victory is evidence of the confidence reposed in him by his constituency. The Press congratulates Mr. Treadway.

"Don't count your chickens before they are hatched". The Literary Digest poll which gave Republicans much encouragement was a "hoop". Something went wrong with that count. Call it a straw vote if you will like all others of their kind but never bank on them for a certainty.

Northfield and Western Massachusetts gave loyal support to its favorite son John W. Haigis for Governor in the election but the odds of a Democratic landslide was too much for him. If Mr. Haigis feels keenly his defeat so do we who gave him such unselfish endorsement. He would have made a good Governor of whom we all would have been proud. We are still strong for him.

Governor Curley whose ambitions to be United States Senator faced the worst disaster of his career. He was defeated at the hands of his own party and the reasons are many with political gossip of all kinds. You may believe some, you may believe all, but watch Curley. A man may be down but not out. Curleyism in Massachusetts is not a dead issue.

And while we are talking politics, do you know that Northfield as a community, politically speaking, only exists. Each year in town meeting we choose the men who are to govern and direct. We vote monies for some scheme that finds a favor with a few intent on satisfying their ideas and adds to our ever increasing tax. We need and want improvements but isn't it time that the town do some thinking and planning of the nature of these improvements and how they can be gradually accomplished without heavy inroads on our purse. Sidewalks, sewers, good roads, playgrounds, these all merit our consideration and they might well be undertaken in a well ordered plan or scheme for the future development of the town.

The Back Yard Gardener

Mark Moaker, who lives on my street, stopped in the other day, and was bemoaning the fact that he never had any luck trying to make bulbs grow indoors. He says, "You always have the nicest pots of tulips, hyacinths, and others along the middle of winter, and mine, well, they grow leaves and may even have flowers, but the flowers look as though they had a case of colic."

Well, Mark, says I, as I look at it, the secret of bulb forcing is getting 'em started right. Whether you grow them in soil, moss, pebbles, or in just plain water, you got to give 'em time enough to develop a good root system.

You see, it's just like trying to do a day's work on an empty stomach. Most of these bulbs simply have to have good root systems before they can develop big leaves and nice big flowers.

Put the pots or whatnot in a dark room, keep them there, and keep them cool and moist. By cool I mean at least down to 45. And they ought to stay there from 8 to 10 weeks. Paper white narcissi will get by on four weeks in the dark room and snowdrops and scilla about six weeks. Then bring them out somewhat gradually into the light. And even then you want to keep them fairly cool with plenty of water and little or no direct sunlight when they are blooming.

On the other hand, Mark, you know that in most any family there is always some member who wants to be a little bit different from the rest. So why don't you try raising some of the bulbs which don't need this incubation period in the dark room? Amryllis, for example, is one and cape bulbs are another. Freesias are about the best of this group. You can pot these in good soil and they'll develop roots and tops at the same time, although with cape bulbs you ought to start them in cool quarters. Amaryllis likes sunshine and water.

The calla is another bulb you might try some time. And I've even had pretty good success forcing gladiolus in the house. But these have to be bulbs which are grown by commercial florists specially for forcing. I wouldn't start these for another month or so.

All of these bulbs like plenty of water and stuff to eat, so be sure your soil is full of the real stuff.

POET'S CORNER

COUNT YOUR BLESSINGS

Do not count when day is o'er,
Daily loss from life's rich store;
But the gains, however small,
Count them daily one and all:

Every sweet and gracious word,
Every pleasant truth you've heard;
Every tender glance and tone,
Every kindly deed you've known;

Every duty nobly done,
Every rightful victory won—
Treasure all, and count them o'er
As a miser counts his store.

But if bitter word or thought
Have a bitter harvest brought;
If some foreman hath assailed you,
Or the friend most trusted failed you;

If unkindness and untruth
Have to you brought saddest ruth,
Blot the score without delay—
Keep no record of the day.

Keep no record of the care,
Loss and cross we all must bear;
On the page of memory write:
Only what is fair and bright.

Let all evil things go by:
Still, with brave endeavor, try
Simple joys to multiply.
Thus you'll learn how large a sum

Will with faithful reckoning come.
Long as after cloud and rain
Blessed sunshine comes again,
Long as after winter's gloom
Summer roses bud and bloom.

Long as we have with us here
One sad heart that we may cheer,
Long as love gilds sorrow's cross,
Life's rich gain o'er pays the loss.

ABOUT MYSELF

I have to live with myself and so I want to be fit for myself to know.

I want to be able, as days go by,
Always to look myself straight in the eye.

I don't want to stand, with the setting sun,
And hate myself for the things I've done.

I don't want to keep on a closet shelf
A lot of secrets about myself,
And fool myself, as I come and go.

Into thinking that nobody else will know
The kind of a man I really am;
I don't want to dress up myself in a sham.

I want to go out with my head erect,
I want to deserve all men's respect.

But here in the struggle for fame and pelf
I want to be able to like myself.
I don't want to look at myself and know,

That I'm bluster and bluff and empty show.
I never can hide myself from me
I see what others may never see,
I know what others may never know.

I never can fool myself, and so
Whatever happens I want to be
Self-respecting and conscience-free.

Mileage Hints

By J. F. Winchester
Supervisor of Motor Vehicle Equipment, Colonial Esso Marketers

DRIVING down steep hills would seem offhand to be a cinch; yet, the truth is that many motorists do not know how to drive down hill properly. The fact that they have driven down steep hills successfully may be a matter of good luck rather than good driving.

In going down hill the careful driver keeps the clutch engaged and lets the engine help slow down the car. He never goes down steep hills in high, but always in first or second, and instead of applying the brakes only when he approaches the bottom of the hill, he keeps working them as he descends, thus pacing his descent in such a manner that as he nears the bottom of the hill he is traveling at a safe and sane speed and can stop easily and without applying full force to his brakes.

Many accidents happen each year because careless drivers dash down hills at breakneck speeds, little realizing the terrific momentum they are piling up as they descend. All too frequently they let their cars get out of control, and before they can regain control they have had a bad accident.

Take The Home Paper

We once knew a man who was too stingy to take the newspaper in his home town and always sent over to borrow his neighbor's paper.

One evening he sent his son over to borrow the paper, and while his son was on his way he ran into a large swarm of bees and in a few minutes his face looked like a summer squash.

Hearing the agonized cries of his son, the father ran to his assistance, and in doing so ran into a barbed wire fence, cutting a handful of flesh from his anatomy and ruining a $4 pair of pants.

The old cow took advantage of the hole in the fence, got into the corn field and killed herself eating green corn. Hearing the racket, the farmer's wife ran out of the house, upsetting a four-gallon churn full of cream into a basket of kittens and killed the whole flock. She slipped on the cream and fell downstairs, breaking her leg and a $19 set of false teeth. The baby, left alone, crawled through the cream into the parlor and ruined a $40 carpet. During the excitement, the daughter eloped with the hired man and took all the family's savings with her.

The moral is that every man should be a subscriber to his home paper—The Tunkhannock (Pennsylvania) Republican and New Age of August 17, 1916.

HEY MOTORISTS! LISTEN!

GOATS!

By THE LITTLE ENGINEER

HERE'S a new motoring idea you might try in your family. Buy a goat. I know the boss of a big oil refinery. He has a large billy goat with long, curving horns and whiskers. Whenever an accident happens in any department the foreman of that department must take of the goat until an accident occurs in another department—feed and bed it, wash it twice a week, polish its horns, curl its hair and comb its whiskers. The desire to avoid tending that goat has reduced accidents to a minimum throughout the entire plant.

For a time you can buy a toy goat. Give it to the member of your family who does some fool driving, leaves the ignition on all night or performs some other stunt that causes danger or expense. You can easily get up a considerable list and make him or her keep it until you or another member of the family commits a motoring bone which earns custody of the goat.

You will find your family very tame on "goat avoidance" and it should improve the driving and car care habits of all of you.
